

Ask Jon Eakes

Tools that hang on belts.

Last Updated: Monday, November 12th, 2012, Created: Friday, January 25th, 2002

This was a fun little segment where we collected all kinds of things that you can hang on a workbelt. That little folding saw that fit into its own belt case comes from Silky Saws. Good both for cutting regular wood and pruning, it is about the smallest yet aggressive saw you can carry around with you on your belt. Of particular note was a special hammer holder that locks the hammer in from Estwing Hammers and the Big Lugg which allows you to hang any cordless drill from your belt (local hardware stores).

Keywords:

Storage, Accessories, Tools

Article 1671

www.joneakes.com